

Emmanuel College New Graduates Pack

To New Graduate Students

Welcome to Emmanuel. I know that when you come up you will find the College to be friendly and welcoming. In each of the Colleges in Cambridge there is a Dean or a Chaplain, most of whom, like me, are clergy of the Church of England. As Dean it is my job to offer support and encouragement to all members of the College, regardless of whether you have any religious belief or not. I am very aware that life as a graduate student can be stressful and the move from the more structured life of an undergraduate can pose problems. I am one of the people who are here to help in whatever way I can. I am in College each day except Saturday. I live in Camden House at the end of Park Terrace. In a crisis you may contact me at any time. I will be introduced to you soon after you arrive and I will be around for many of the events in the first few days of term. As well as being the Dean I am also one of the Graduate Tutors, and also the Praelector (the person who looks after graduation and matriculation ceremonies).

There are, of course, many people in the College who are here to help you. As well as the Graduate Tutors there is a College Counsellor, Ann Hughes, who is available at regular times each week. There is also a College Nurse to help you with medical matters.

As you might expect, I also run the College Chapel. You can't miss the Chapel – it faces you as you come through the front gate and acts as a reminder that there is a religious dimension to all of life. A community such as Emmanuel includes all shades of religious belief and unbelief, and I hope that you will find in the Chapel programme something to help you reflect on issues of faith whatever your background, and whether you regard yourself as an interested bystander or a committed believer. There are three main services each week, one on Thursday evening and two on Sunday, morning and evening. Everyone is welcome at all the chapel services. Please email me or fill in the accompanying form if you would like to be kept informed of Chapel events or if you would be willing to help with reading in Chapel. It is really useful to have as many people as possible to help with the reading. If you are a singer, the Chapel Choir is a sociable and welcoming group, who have just returned from a very successful tour to Germany. They will be holding auditions soon after the beginning of term, and there are Choral Exhibitions and help with singing lessons available to regular members. Email Richard Latham (rtl21@cam.ac.uk) the Director of Chapel Music, to find out more.

There are many other religious groups that are independent of the Chapel. Within the College the Christian Union reps are Matt Gurtler (mrg54@cam.ac.uk) and Emma Nicholls (eln30@cam.ac.uk). They organise a getaway before term starts. Do contact either one of them if you would be interested. There are also many religious societies and chaplaincies in Cambridge. The Roman Catholic chaplaincy to the University is based at Fisher House in the centre of town, and the Methodist Chaplaincy is based at Wesley Church. There are Jewish, Muslim and Hindu chaplaincies and active Buddhist, Sikh Jain and Baha'i societies in the University.

I very much hope that your time here will be happy and fulfilled. I look forward to meeting you!

With very best wishes,

The Reverend Jeremy Caddick
Dean
