Further Particulars
Teaching / Research Fellowship in German

Emmanuel College, University of Cambridge, intends to elect a Teaching / Research Fellow in German.

The Governing Body of Emmanuel College invites applications for a Fellowship in German, tenable for five years from October 1st 2022.

The post-holder may be active in research in any field of German (excluding linguistics), with the expectation that the appointed person would be able to supervise a range of German material on the Modern and Medieval Languages undergraduate degree (or ‘Tripos’), including GE1. Information on specific courses (or ‘papers’) is available from https://www.mmll.cam.ac.uk/german. Preference may be given to candidates who are able to offer teaching in more than one area of modern German literature, film, thought, and/or history (as well as being able to teach German language). Applicants will normally be expected to have had some relevant teaching experience, and to have carried out at most ten years of postgraduate research, teaching or professional work since gaining their bachelor’s degree.

The stipend for the Fellow will be approximately £34,011 (or £26,043), depending on whether the Fellow is non-resident or resident in College. In addition to pursuing personal research, the Fellow will be required to teach (typically in small groups of students) for six hours per week for Emmanuel College during Full Term, to Direct Studies (in German and, when required, for Modern Languages as a whole), and to participate in the annual selection of undergraduates at Emmanuel to read for the degrees in Modern and Medieval Languages, and in History and Modern Languages.

The Cambridge University Students Union (CUSU) have provided a description of the duties of the Director of Studies, which can be found here: https://www.studentadvice.cam.ac.uk/support/college/dos/

Informal enquiries about the role may be made to Dr Geoffrey Maguire, the Director of Studies in Modern and Medieval Languages (gwm23@cam.ac.uk), while any questions about the College more generally can be addressed to Professor Robert Henderson, the Senior Tutor (rmh1003@cam.ac.uk)

A grant for the purchase of computing equipment will be available. Additional benefits provided for the Fellow will be an annual grant of up to £1,500 for academic travel and general research expenses, and £280 for the purchase of academic books. The Fellow will be given the option to live in College, and will be provided with lunch and dinner in Hall free of charge.
